A MESSAGE FROM

Frank Symons

EVP/COO, Western Region

I take great pleasure in presenting the Greater Los Angeles Market Update for the third quarter of 2018.

According to the local MLS, the median and average selling price in Greater Los Angeles continues to rise. The average sales price of single-family homes sold in the Los Angeles area increased 9% year over year from $2.3M in 2017 compared to $2.5M in 2018. The overall median selling price reached a high of $1.68M, a 9% increase compared to the same time last year of $1.49M. Additionally, the average days on the market for single-family homes declined 8 days in the third quarter of 2018 to 79 days compared to 87 days in the third quarter of 2017.

Since our flagship brokerage opened in Beverly Hills in 1995, Sotheby's International Realty has had a white-gloved finger on the pulse of the real estate market. In the pages that follow, we have prepared a thorough review of the Greater Los Angeles market, with an in-depth analysis of each of the neighborhoods we serve.

I hope that you enjoy exploring our quarterly market update, and I invite you to discover more information online at sothebyshomes.com. If Sotheby's International Realty can be of service to you in the sale or purchase of property in California or anywhere else, please call me at (310) 786-1801 so that I may personally introduce you to a local expert.

About

Malibu

With nearly 27 miles of gorgeous coastline covered in pristine beaches, Malibu is one of the most storied oceanfront communities on the West Coast. The area offers long strands of private beaches, world-class surfing at Zuma and El Matador, and front-row seats to unforgettable sunsets. Malibu is both classic California and understated/rustic elegance.
